PARKS AND GARDENS FEATURE OF 2015-2016 BUDGET PAGE 3
Welcome to another over the back fence and here we are midway through the winter season.

Before I start with some winter activities, you should have received your new waste collection green bin, to be known as the organics bin, which everyone will receive along with a kitchen caddy.

This a green resource that will reduce our waste going into the regional landfill.

I know a lot of residents are currently doing a great effort already producing their own compost for home gardens and please don't stop this activity.

But your overload in spring, summer and autumn can go each week in this system, as well as materials that aren't always suitable for backyard composting such as used and soiled paper, pet wastes, citrus, cooked and raw bones, diseased plants and weeds.

Probably enough said on the change of bin systems but any concerns or issues please ring the Green Team on 131339 and remember we are available to help.

Also if you have an overload of general waste, chat with those that can sit at home and complain about the winter blues and feel miserable or fight the dull weather, dress up and get out and explore all the great things our city and region have to offer.

We can sit at home and complain about the winter blues and feel miserable or fight the dull weather, dress up and get out and about

Really, spring is just around the corner and we will be able to watch our great city come alive with blossoms.

As we head into wintry months I encourage everyone to beat off the winter blues as they say and so I've put together some ideas to do just that.

My point being we can enjoy the activities of our community and yourself.

Great helping others out for the betterment and help as a volunteer. It will make you feel great to do some shopping and catching up with friends or better still get out on your favourite local lakes and rivers. It could be as close as Felltimber Creek where you can learn to catch fish.

Get out with the family and share a barbecue with friends, in the parks across the greater city of Wodonga.

When growing your winter vegetables, if you have an over supply think about sharing or swapping for other services with community members.

Or simply check on your parents or grandparents and take them for an outing.

The challenge could be to head out and fish in our local lakes and rivers. It could be as close as Felltimber Creek where you can learn to catch fish.

As it was recently volunteers week, get out and help as a volunteer. It will make you feel great helping others out for the betterment of our community and yourself.

Regional Capitals Australia (RCA) highlighted how more targeted infrastructure investment in regional capitals can ease the squeeze in metropolitan cities and boost regional Australia’s growth at a meeting in Canberra in June.

Joined by Assistant Minister for Infrastructure and Regional Development Jamie Briggs and 75 leaders from regional capitals, RCA chairwoman, Mayor Deirdre Comerford drew on the alliance’s submission into the Senate Inquiry on The future role and contribution of regional capitals to Australia to highlight the need for additional national funding to grow regional capitals.

‘Regional capitals are already the key to successful regions – our cities are home to four million people, and also support an additional four million residents in surrounding areas who depend on these cities for their jobs, infrastructure, hospitals, education and other essential social infrastructure.

“What is less well known is that we are also important contributors to regional Australia and our nation. Each year $225 billion is generated in our 50 cities and with the right investment this figure can only grow.”

Despite their sizeable potential, there is currently a lack of consistent investment in regional capitals infrastructure, a key policy gap that Regional Capitals Australia is trying to address.

“What we need is infrastructure funding that targets the areas of greatest return: regional capitals. This sort of strategic investment will be more effective than just funnelling money into the areas around capital cities to try to cope with current congestion,” Cr Comerford said.

“The economic analysis in our recent submission proves that regional capitals absolutely deserve a place in national policy, and achieving that recognition is the number one goal for Regional Capitals Australia.”

Works at parks and gardens feature in 2015-2016 budget

Wodonga Council adopted its 2015-2016 budget at its June council meeting.

After a period of community consultation, the council passed the draft budget in its entirety with the addition of $10,000 for Albury-Wodonga Regional Foodshare.

The funding will allow the organisation to continue its work. It rescues more than 54,000 kilograms from going to landfill each month and provides more than 1.3 million meals a year to people in need.

The 2015-2016 budget includes $11.4 million for capital works.

Popular parks including Belvoir Park, Willow Park and the Felltimber precinct will share in almost $200,000 for outdoor fitness equipment and solar lighting.

Works at Belvoir Lake will also include $50,000 for water edge treatment.

The council will also spend $20,000 on drinking fountains and associated infrastructure on the paths network.

More than $100,000 will be spent on trees for shade at playgrounds and tree planting around the city as well as $50,000 for a tree auditing program.

Junction Square the top choice

Junction Square is the name which will be put forward to the Registrar of Geographic Names for the redeveloped square at the corner of High St and Elgin Boulevard following the June council meeting.

Various council and media polls had the square as the most popular choice among the community.

The registrar determines the suitability of the council’s proposed name before the official gazettal can take place.

The council would like to thank everyone who had their say.

Regional Capitals ‘key to sustainable population and productivity growth’

Regional Capitals Australia (RCA) highlighted how more targeted infrastructure investment in regional capitals can ease the squeeze in metropolitan cities and boost regional Australia’s growth at a meeting in Canberra in June.

If you receive your rates notice via email you can print it off and use the tip vouchers just as you would if you received your rates notice in hard copy. Each voucher has a bar code on it which prevents it from being used twice.

Sometimes the council’s cleaning contractor makes changes to the bin collection timetable. We encourage everyone to put their bin out the night before, or before 6am on the day of collection, to ensure it isn’t missed.

If you are unable to resolve a dispute with your neighbour, it’s best that you contact the Dispute Settlement Centre of Victoria on 1300 372 888 or visit disputes.vic.gov.au. The centre is a free service provided by the Victorian Government an offers telephone advice as well as mediation.

If you are arguing over a tree that is on their property but hanging over my side of the fence. Can the council help us work it out?

Dogs must be under effective control at all times, whether this is by hand, voice or lead. The exceptions to this are in designated areas such as playgrounds and organised events where they must be on a lead. If your dog likes to run around and socialise with other animals, the off-leash dog park in Belvoir Park is a much-loved spot for dogs and their owners. The park has two dog agility runs, which were kindly donated by Mars Petcare.

I take my dog for a walk regularly but he doesn’t like to be walked on the lead. Am I allowed to let him off the lead, as long as he is walking near me?

My rubbish bin normally gets collected in the afternoon, and this week it was collected in the morning. I hadn’t put the bin out yet and I missed the collection.

Residents band together to create shared garden

HAVING little or no backyard is no longer stopping Elmwood residents from growing their own fruit and vegetables.

The Wodonga micro-community has just completed work on a community garden comprising seven garden beds and numerous pots with climbers such as passionfruit and miniature kiwi fruit.

Resident Charles Murphy said the project completed the community’s vision for the open space and covered barbecue area, which is central to the 150-townhouse development.

“A lot of people here have very, very small backyards or they just have a deck,” he said.

“There is a need for people to have a community garden because they simply don’t have the room to do it themselves.”

The garden was jointly funded by Elmwood developer, Brendon Collins of Lightwood Builders, and Wodonga Council.

New 3-bin system starts in Wodonga

The new 3-bin system has now been introduced into Wodonga with organic food and garden waste from homes now recycled instead of going to landfill.

The Halve Waste initiative, which was launched in AlburyCity and Corowa Shire in April, is part of a united roll-out across the region that will see households which don’t already have a green bin, issued with an additional green-lidded bin for all organic waste.

“It means Wodonga and Indigo Shire residents will now have a three-bin household waste collection service that benefits the local environment, creates valuable compost and extends the life of our local landfill,” Nina McHardy from Transpacific Cleanaway said.

“The kitchen caddy and roll of compostable liners provided help neatly gather household scraps including meat bones and citrus, before placing them in the green-lidded organics bin.”

A Halve Waste Green Team has been meeting with residents and community groups, to offer assistance and advice on the system.

Residents are advised to visit the Halve Waste website for detailed fact sheets, tips and frequently asked questions.

The new three-bin service allows food and garden waste to be collected and recycled, in addition to regular waste and recycling.

By diverting organics from landfill, residents help extend the life of Albury landfill by sending less waste to a community asset that has limited space available.

Organic material in landfill is one of the biggest causes of greenhouse gas emission.

The new collection regime means:

• Weekly collection of green-lidded organics bin;
• Fortnightly collection of yellow-lidded recycling bin; and,
• Fortnightly collection of red-lidded general waste bin.

Residents are reminded the general red-lidded rubbish bin will now be emptied fortnightly instead of weekly.

It’s estimated about half of household waste that would usually go into the red-lidded bin, will be composted through the green-lidded organics bin.

Preschool enrolments now open for 2016

It’s the time of year that those of you with young children are thinking about preschool for 2016 and enrolments are now being accepted.

For applications to be considered in the first round of offers, applications must be submitted by July 31, 2015.

Wodonga Council preschools will be offering three-year-old and four-year-old preschool programs from six sites in 2016.

Application forms are available at council offices, maternal and child health centre, preschools, community centres or the council’s website at wodonga.vic.gov.au

For further enquiries contact the early years team on (02) 6022 9300.

NEW HOMES FOR LITTLE FREE LIBRARIES

Be on the lookout for Wodonga’s Little Free Libraries that have found new homes across the city.

Each library is a weatherproof installation which houses a small amount of books which members of the public can borrow and exchange.

The Little Free Libraries can be found at Baranduda Community Centre, Wodonga Plaza and Wodonga Train Station.

Modern cloth nappy workshops at library

Halve Waste will be presenting two free workshops in Wodonga on modern cloth nappies.

The workshops aim to demystify the daunting concept of choosing or converting to cloth nappies.

The workshops will touch on many of the popular questions relating to modern cloth nappies as well as providing the opportunity to touch and feel a range of nappies and accessories.

The workshops will be held at the Wodonga Library on Friday, July 17 at 10.30am and Wednesday, August 12 at 10.30am.

Share a lifetime goal

“In My Lifetime ...” is a public art project that invites people to reflect on their lives and share their personal aspirations in a public space.

The community is encouraged to grab a piece of chalk, choose a space on the chalkboard and write down their dreams.

The original wall was titled “Before I Die ...” and was created by international artist Candy Chang on an abandoned house in her neighbourhood in New Orleans after she lost someone she loved.

More than 400 walls have been created in more than 25 languages and more than 60 countries, including Kazakhstan, Argentina, China, Italy, Israel, Thailand, and South Africa.

The semi-permanent installation is on the Lawrence St facade of Arts Space Wodonga.

Look after your body, brain health

Research shows what’s good for the body and the heart is also good for the brain.

The best way to do this is to exercise, eat healthy foods and manage conditions such as high blood pressure, cholesterol and blood sugar.

Combine this with stimulating social and mental activities and you’ll be taking positive steps towards looking after your brain, body and heart.

In response to this research Alzheimer’s Australia has developed the Your Brain Matters program.

It aims to raise awareness about the actions everyone can take to help reduce their risk of developing dementia in the future.

The Border Scale Modellers’ seventh annual show on July 18 and 19 has become well-established and recognised in the national modelling community. The size of the show, the quality of the display and the organisation of the event have drawn compliments from fellow modellers, traders in the industry and the principle hobby publication ModelArt Australia. Models on show and competing are from a diverse range of subjects – armoured vehicles to F1 race cars and submarines to fantasy war gaming figures. In fact any subject can be accommodated somewhere in the 29 categories available. There’s even a miscellaneous category for that novel model no one else thought of.

Modellers from as far as Adelaide, Wagga, Melbourne, Canberra and many places in between will be bringing their creations to display and compete. But you don’t have to be a member of a club to enter your models or even be interested in competing. While being a competition, most of the models on display will just be there to show off their maker’s pride and joys.

Currently there is a vast range of subjects that amazes those unfamiliar with the hobby. Traders will also be there to provide for any subject from entry level to the advanced. Even a swap and sell stand to pick up a second-hand kit for a budget price to try your hand at something creative.

All facilities are available including wheelchair access, plenty of parking, rest area and council-registered cafeteria. The show will be on July 18 and 19 at Galvin Hall, Wodonga Senior Secondary College, Woodland St. Wodonga.

Times are Saturday 10am to 5pm, Sunday 9am to 3pm. Public admission remains at 2014 prices of adults $5, children under 16 and concession $3, families of two adults plus children $10. Competitors’ entry is free but $2 per model up to $10, free thereafter.

Final notices issued for overdue rates

As the fourth instalment of the 2014-2015 rates and charges was payable by June, final notices have been issued for certain properties. Properties that have instalments outstanding may be referred to a collection agency for legal proceedings if payment is not made or an arrangement put in place.

2015-2016 NOTICES

The annual rates and valuation notices for the 2015-2016 rating period will be issued in August. The properties subject to a residential or rural garbage and recycle collection will have the two “Transfer Station Vouchers” as a cut-off section on the notice. Direct debit payments may be arranged but the facility is available via internet banking portal. Register through your internet banking site and note that debit facility and note that you have agreed to make payments on the dates specified in the letter of acceptance of the direct debit facility and note that the banking details for each assessment will be rolled to the 2015-2016 rating period. First instalment amounts will be extracted on September 30 with the other instalments on November 30, February 29 and May 31. The direct debit nine instalment payments will have nine monthly amounts extracted from their nominated account on the 20th of the month from September to May.

As an owner builder, you are required to obtain a certificate of consent from the Victorian Building Authority where the value of works is more than $12,000 in order to obtain a building permit. Obtaining a certificate of consent does not guarantee that you will be issued with a building permit. A building permit will need to be obtained from a registered building surveyor.

For more information on becoming an owner builder, please contact the Victorian Building Authority on 1300 815 127.
